Expansion drive continues with the appointment of Reback

5th February 2020

The fast-growing corporate reputation specialist has made a senior hire in its Change & Employee Engagement area.

Montfort Communications has appointed Jerome Reback as a senior consultant in its Change & Employee Engagement practice. Jerome has more than 25 years' experience as an expert adviser on employee engagement programmes, and was a partner at the specialist boutique Engage for Change before recent in-house spells at Lego and BP. Reback will work alongside practice head Scott McKenzie as they build on significant new business wins.

"I am delighted that Jerome has joined Montfort in what is a very exciting time for the business. We are seeing significant client demand for specialist expertise and believe there is huge potential for further growth in our Change & Employee Engagement practice" said Hugh Morrison, founding partner of Montfort.

Montfort has more than doubled in size over the past year following a string of new business wins across all sectors, most recently securing the mandate to advise the asset management arm of BNP Paribas.
